

¡Hola Todos!

February 5, 2010

Hey Everyone!

DTS

It seems like 12 is just our number, but in the first couple weeks of our school we had our one guy and another girl both leave, but then we had another guy, Ulises from Mexico City, and another girl, Sthefania from Colombia join us, so we still have our 12 "disciples" as we like to call them! Besides all of that, our classes have been incredible! I can't believe how much our students are already changing and growing. I love my one-on-ones (the 4 girls that I am discipling throughout the school)! I think that it is just amazing how God brings the right people at the right time to the right place every time.

HAITI

So I'm sure that you have heard at least a bit about what has happened and is going on in Haiti with the earthquake, and you may remember that I went there on outreach about a year ago, so.....I'M GOING THERE AGAIN! Before the school started, we had prayed about our outreach locations and had felt that we should go to Mexico City and China. However, after the earthquake hit, we spent one of our intercession times praying for Haiti, and many of the students and all of us DTS staff started feeling like we should change one of our outreach locations and go to Haiti instead. So we talked it through with our leadership team and then submitted it to the students and, to our surprise, EVERYONE felt that they should go to Haiti on outreach....so WE'RE ALL GOING!!!! I am soooo excited to get to go back and hopefully reconnect with many of the people I met there the first time. I have been praying so much for them and keeping up to date on what is going on with the main YWAM base there in St. Marc. If you'd like to look at their updates as well, just go here:

EVANGELISM MINISTRY

This month I have gone to our evangelism ministry on Sunday nights a few times with the DTS when we haven't had the mercy ministry (ACTS) that I'm normally a part of. So, this past Sunday was one of those times and it was absolutely phenomenal! I ended up playing with a group of kids that are always there; we played games, did an interactive Bible story of the story of Jericho, and then shared the gospel, and about 15 kids gave their lives to Christ!!!! But that wasn't the end of my awesome night... when we were about to leave, I saw our speaker from the week, Bob, who taught on evangelism, giving the gospel message to this group of skater boys and felt God tell me to go over there, so I went. After Bob finished praying with several of them, one guy really caught my eye, so I went over to talk to him and it turns out that he had been at my church that morning and seen me playing in the worship band. So I started talking to him and encouraging him in his faith when one of his friends, Armando, walked up. I asked him what he thought about what Bob had said and he really opened up about how he's not sure if he believes in God because life is so confusing and complicated. Then I got to share with him about how God is a God of clarity, who speaks to his children and guides them. He was really touched by what I was saying and I could tell that he was really processing it. So I invited him to come by during Carnival so we could talk more since we both had to go, but it was such a God-thing that we talked!

PRAYER REQUESTS

- that I'd meet Armando again, talk to him more, and that he'd accept Christ.
- for Haiti, and that we'd have clear communication with them about how we can help and what we can do there on outreach.
- that Carnival (coming up Feb. 11-16) would be successful, we'd see a lot of people saved, and that no one would be killed during it.

Thank you all so much for your prayers and support! I'd love to hear from you as well! I'm so blessed by you guys!

Dios les bendiga,
Cassandra
